Each year in the U.S. approximately 50,000 children die from child abuse related incidents. Of these, it is estimated that 30% are preventable.

How you can help:

- Become a foster parent
- Speak with others about the possibility of becoming a foster parent
- Know and recognize the signs of child abuse
- Talk with your children about how they can protect themselves
- Call Child Protective Services if you think a child is at risk
- Wear a blue ribbon during the month of April
- Praise your children for their accomplishments
- Remember everything you do and say effects a child
- Tell your children that you love them
